2) Place acetate panel in MISTI and stamp design and sentiment using Staz-on ink.

3) Line up the white panel and ensuring that the acetate and white panels are at the same level (note the tabs are the other way around on the white panel). Stamp the image to be colored using Memento Tuxedo Black ink.

4) Fuse the brush nib of the Fuchsia pen for 6-12 seconds depending on the size of the petal and then color each petal from the outside edge into the centre.

5) Using the brush nib of the Peony Pink pen color over one of the flowers without fusing. Repeat this process for the remaining flowers using Bisque and Bubblegum Pink.

6) Fuse the Dark sage pen for 6 seconds and color the fronds, then without fusing color over the top with Green Apple pen.

7) Line up the white image with the acetate version (making sure the acetate tabs are the opposite end to the white tabs). Fold acetate tabs over on the first score line and attach to back of white panel.

8) Trim the white tabs so that they are 1/2 the width and then fold in to strengthen.

9) Cut a panel from the patterned paper, distress the edges with Tattered Rose Distress ink and mount onto remaining white tabbed panel.

10) Attach the front panel to the back panel with double sided tape on one side.

11) Line up top tabs and adhere to panel.

12) Place the panel with patterned paper in between the acetate and colored image with the patterned paper tabs to the right, trim these tabs to half the width.

13) Place the tabbed panels into the card adhering the patterned panel tabs to the back of the white base. Then seal the remaining side and left side of the slider making sure the mechanism slides easily still. (by placing the tabs at opposite ends the slider will not pull completely out of the card).

14) Die cut leaves, arrow and stamp the flowers again onto scrap card, color in and fussy cut.

15) Attach flowers and leaves to pull tab and add arrow tab to finish.
